Snow Globe elevates the look of a Good Class Bungalow with modern furnishings that combine a timeless appeal with absolute elegance

Location, size, and exclusivity—Singapore’s Good Class Bungalows possess these qualities and more, making them such covetable properties in the city-state. For one recent project, Snow Globe founder Juliana Boh and her team had the wonderful opportunity to furnish such a prized abode.

The client provided the following brief: to create a home that combines “modern contemporary elements with a touch of luxury”, with the local furniture retailer tasked to furnish the abode with various bespoke pieces. The entire project, which took six months to realise, and involved everything from the curation of products and the manufacturing of the custom designs to the final installation of these pieces in the house.

A good example of Snow Globe’s exemplary work can be seen in the formal living room, which features a pleasingly symmetrical composition. The team provided a pair of custom sofas, Chinese-style armchairs, side tables and a rug. These are accompanied with the Heather fluted sideboard, which is the perfect accent piece; it gives the understated, neutral scheme a boost with its glamorous gold-hued accents.

Another key space is the formal dining room, which can seat a party of 14. Here, Snow Globe installed a four-metre-long dining table and a set of Stella dining chairs; the latter boast beautiful pleated details on their backs.

Due to the complexity of this project, the installation and delivery process took two days to complete. “There was a lot of coordination, as almost every piece was customised, involving different materials and measurements. Our team worked hard on this to ensure everything went smoothly without any hiccups; seeing the whole place set up with our furniture was truly satisfying,” explains Boh, speaking with pride of the end result.
